Decision Delayed in Election Suit, Now Nearing Close

Parks Asks Dismissal, Asserting Congress Has Seated Him

COURT CHALLENGED

Parks Contends Congress Has Final Authority Over Membership

HAMBURG, Ark. — Because many witnesses had been subpoenaed to appear in court Wednesday, Judge Henry postponed until Thursday his ruling on a motion by the defendant to dismiss the election contest suit of Wade Kitchens against Tilman B. Parks being heard in circuit court here.

He declared winner of the race for congressman of the Seventh district at the August 23 primary by a majority of about 300 votes, alleged in his motion that the circuit court was without jurisdiction to try the case. He contended that since he had taken his seat in congress, the House of Representatives alone had the right to pass on his eligibility. He said that the United States constitution provides that the congress shall be the judge of its members.

After introducing two witnesses from Parkdale, Ashley county, Wednesday, the defense rested except for rebuttal testimony. The plaintiff then introduced approximately 30 witnesses from various counties in the district.

Gordon Deites Brille R. L. Gordon of Dermott, the first witness for the plaintiff, denied testimony offered previously by E. C. Aiken, former secretary of the Ashley County Democratic Committee, to the effect that Gordon went to Aiken's home at 2 a. m. the day following the run-off primary and, following a telephone conversation with Kitchens, said that "the bridge is off" and that Kitchens would give $1,000 and the Crockett postmaster's office for the Ashley county vote.

Kitchens corroborated Gordon's testimony a few minutes later, as did Hamilton Kitchens, son of the plaintiff. Kitchens' secretary, Miss Flora Davis, and several others, who said they were in Kitchens' office most of the night and that no such conversation was held. Kitchens declared he made no such statement to Gordon.

Kitchens Takes Stand Kitchens testified that he did not have a campaign manager at Gordon named Thornton, as had been testified. He said that he had seen Thornton only once or twice. He added that he had "good information" that Thornton voted for Parks.

Kitchens testified that he had not offered an appointment to anyone during the campaign, nor had he authorized any one else to offer one. He declared that Mal Lee of Coater, Ashley county, testified incorrectly when he said that Kitchens was at Coater the day before Thanksgiving. Kitchens added that he had talked with Lee only once, and that was at Hamburg. Lee had testified that Kitchens promised to assist him with his claim for government compensation if he would verify "certain figures."

Senate Ready to Sustain Bonus Veto

35 Votes, 2 Over Required Number, Stand by F. D. R.

Commander Frank Belgrano Carries Legion Fight to Washington

HANGS ON 2 VOTES

Meanwhile, President and Congress Leaders Agree on Relief

Copyright Associated Press

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A survey of the senate indicated definitely Thursday that if the present lineup on the soldiers bonus issue is continued unchanged through the ultimate roll call a presidential veto of full and immediate payment would be upheld.

This disclosure came as the national commander of the American Legion, Frank Belgrano, Jr., hurried to the capital to press his fight for the bonus.

Interviews with the senators showed 33 taking a stand that—barring future changes of mind—would be virtually certain to vote to sustain a presidential veto.

Thirty-three votes would block the bonus, for it takes a two-thirds majority to override a veto.

Agree on Relief

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An agreement for making available a lump sum to be administered by the president, out of the 4 billion dollars requested by the administration for the new work relief program, was reached Thursday by President Roosevelt and congressional leaders.

21 Indictments in Nevada Reported

Cairo Young, Watchman's Assailant, Among Those True-Billed

PRESCOTT, Ark. — Cairo Young negro, was one of 21 defendants indicted Wednesday by the Nevada county grand jury. He was charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with a knife attack he made several days ago on Pomp Whiteside, FERA secretary.

Due to the condition of Whiteside the negro was not arraigned after being billed. Physicians attending Whiteside, who is a former Nevada county jailer, said he had an even chance to live.

In the event of his death Prosecution Attorney Ned Stewart said he would seek a murder indictment against Young.

Following the report of the investigators, Judge Dexter Bush received pleas of guilty from Fred Kirk, negro, charged with robbery; Jim Snyder, negro, charged with murder, and Joe Turner, negro charged with burglary and grand larceny. Sentences will be pronounced later.

Aside from the three who entered pleas after being billed, indictments were returned against Galley McKillian, Ed Reed and Sweeney Reed, all negroes, charged with robbery; Parnell Thomas, Robert Roberts and George Cavanaugh, charged with robbing Ray Crank of $30; Joe Brown and James Brownfield, charged with burglary; Richard Brown, negro, charged with larceny; James Wall and Clim Hudspeth, of Kilgore, charged with robbing the Elbbs Sandwich Shop of $32.20; Gene Lemon, negro, charged with burglary and grand larceny; Malcolm Malony, negro, charged with robbery; burglary and grand larceny on separate counts; Julius Lawrence and Booker Finley, negroes, charged with grand larceny; Leo Jackson and Mollie Jamison, negroes charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Later in the day Wall and Hudspeth added their pleas of guilty to those already received by Judge Bush. They admitted the hijacking of the sand-wich shop in which more than $40 was taken.

Pioneer Texan Dies

BEAUMONT, Texas. — (AP)—Steam-boating on the Neches half a century ago was recalled Thursday when Mrs. A. D. Wagley, 83, died at her home in Jasper.

She was the only surviving child of Captain A. F. Smyth, who was skipper of the steamboat "Laura," famous on the Neches river more than 50 years ago.

One of Mrs. Wagley's favorite memories was of a trip to Galveston with her father when he sold a cargo of cotton and received in pay $75,000 in gold, which he carried the streets of Galveston to a bank in a water bucket.

Budget Puts Money in Home, Says Cooking School Teacher

Miss Jessie Hogue to Open 4-Day Engagement at the Saenger Theater Next Tuesday Afternoon

A budget plan in the hand is worth twice the money in the purse, according to Miss Jessie Hogue, nationally known authority on food and home economics, whose charming personality will be the leading feature of this newspaper's Happy Kitchen Cooking School on Tuesday through Friday at the Saenger theater.

Accurate division and planning for spending the income, be it large or small, means fewer expensive mistakes, says Miss Hogue; also it means better food and clothing, less work, time for more reading, study, friends, recreation, when done with a system or well-conceived plan.

The family budget for the young couple or the couple of any age tells you what your money can and will do for you. The home, says Miss Hogue, is the biggest departmental business in the world; and yet in the majority of homes there is no definite plan for budgeting the income so that the family may get the most out of life.

How delightful it would be if your pocketbook was like a conjuror's hat and—presto!—the touch of a magic wand and out would come anything you desired. Unfortunately pocketbooks are not magical. They contain only what is actually in them. And me have to face the fact that our income, whatever its size is a matter of cold figures.

Miss Hogue's views on budgeting are interesting. No plan will apply for all; but this expert on home management will be glad to advise you just how you can divide your income according to your requirements with a view of getting the last penny's value out of every dollar.

Watch for this newspaper's Happy Kitchen Cooking School, and plan to attend every session. No admission fee and no obligation.

Lewallen Urges Chicken Thief Law

Would Raise Poultry Stealing to a Penal Offense

Editor The Star: The poultry raisers over Hopestead county are in urgent need of some protection against the chicken thieves which are operating over the county and adjoining counties. This band of thieves are taking nearly half of the poultry raised in this county yearly.

Until we get relief through our legislature this will continue. Seemingly the relief we need today is a bill changing the penalty of this crime from petit larceny to grand larceny.

If the poultry raisers from each community will get in touch with our county agent and arrange a meeting at an early date, to enable a committee appointed at this meeting to put this before the legislative body at the coming session, it will put a stop to this offense.

I urge you poultry raisers to give this your consideration and attention. RILEY LEWALLEN January 10, 1935 Hope, Ark.

New Burr Store Opened Thursday

Handsome New Quarters Taken by Enlarged Department Store

The new department store of Burr Store company opened at a capacity crowd Thursday morning in the double-store-front on Second street formerly occupied by the Busy and Middlebrooks grocery stores, adjoining the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. building.

Faced with a special dense-black marble composition the new store presents a striking appearance, further emphasized by a daylight type of window-lighting and the use of special aluminum reflectors which can be spotted anywhere in the window. A new type of silhouette window mannequins are used for the display of dresses.

Special lighting arrangements for the interior include 30 "white-light" fixtures, each with a 200-watt bulb, controlled both from a central point and on each individual fixture.

The store has the latest type of tilted counter displays, the back raised about three inches to give better visibility to goods. All small merchandise is openly displayed on counters, departmentalized in the latest method.

All ready-to-wear cabinets are lighted. The millinery department has this unusual feature. All hats are displayed under flood-lights, with two variety-type mirrors available for the trying-on of hats.

The new building is 12 feet wider than the old one, and has a double entrance and wider aisles.

Stock is carried on the second floor, with a 25 per cent larger inventory and many brand new lines of items.

Manger L. E. Fountain has the following staff: D. H. Chumbley, assistant manager; Miss Dorothy Wright, office, assistant; and the following salespeople: Mrs. C. McAdams, Mrs. Claudia Price, Mrs. Faye Russell and Hendrix Spraggins. In addition there are eight women and two men available for extra help on special days.

M. Ray Clark, of Chicago, operating manager of the Burr Store company, was in Hope for the opening.

Old Age Pension Up to U. S., States

Joint Program Is Being Worked Out by President Roosevelt

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — An economic security program designed to help the states take care of the 1,500,000 "unemployables" will be finished within the next five days by President Roosevelt.

The chief executive said Wednesday he would receive from Secretary Perkins Thursday the recommendations of his Cabinet Committee covering the program.

Old age and mothers' aid pension plans were coupled with unemployment insurance in outlines of the recommendations. The two former would be financed jointly by federal and state governments until sufficient funds were paid in to set them going.

The latter would be financed by a pay roll tax with the money going into a central fund handled by the federal government but paid out to beneficiaries by the states.

President Roosevelt said he would discuss the entire program with congressional leaders within the next few days and would send it to Capitol Hill about the middle of next week.

Meanwhile, the administration was rapidly rounding up figures to show how many persons the old age and mothers' aid pensions would cover.

These figures would show the gap, which as far as present indications go, would largely have to be filled by the states. Between the young dependents who would fall under the mothers' aid plan and those over 65 who would be cared for by old age pensions.

Officials said state directors were making a quick survey to determine what proportion of the 1,500,000 persons to be returned to state relief rolls would fall in the between-age classification.

THREE TO TESTIFY

Aboard Ship Headed for U.S.A. — "Red" Johnson Not Wanted, However

FLEMINGTON, N. J. — (AP) — Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, attempted unsuccessfully Thursday to show through Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon that the Lindbergh baby was stolen by a gang.

Questions hammered at Condon by Defense Attorney Edward J. Reilly produced only negative answers.

The aged educator didn't remember telling anybody he believed that a gang kidnaped the baby, and he denied the attorney's assertion that he (Condon) had told newspapermen that the baby's body had been brought back to the spot where it was found in the woods.

While the trial drama unfolded here three state witnesses were on a ship en route to Flemington.

Attorney General Wilentz said he knew the names of some of them yet declined to reveal them.

Wilentz reiterated that Henry (Red) Johnson, former fiancée of Betty Gow, was not being brought back from Norway to testify.

Defense Hits Condon

FLEMINGTON, N. J. — With a new understanding among the defense lawyers for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, apparent, Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense table, and Frederick A. Pope, associate, both Wednesday night expressed themselves pleased with the progress they had made in the cross examination of Dr. John F. Condon.

Mr. Pope's statement came at the close of the day in court. He said: "We nailed him in a box. I refer to Condon's testimony when he said he called Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and told him he had received a note with the ransom note symbols and yet he testified on direct examination that the letter which contained the symbols had been handed over to Colonel Lindbergh sealed."

"He got in pretty deep," Mr. Pope continued, referring to Condon, "showing the unreliability of a garrulous witness."

Reilly Broadcasts

Mr. Reilly made the same point in a radio broadcast at the end of the day. He also referred to Dr. Condon's testimony when he said he had written the note to Bronx Home News in part to clear the name of Henry (Red) Johnson, whom Miss Betty Gow, nurse to the Lindbergh baby, identified as a friend, two days before Johnson's name was brought into the case.

"Yet," Mr. Reilly said after his broadcast, "he would try to have us believe that he did not know Johnson. He went to bat for a deck hand on a yacht, he says he did not even know."

During the day, Mr. Pope and C. Lloyd Fisher, also a defense lawyer, took an active part in the trial. Mr. Fisher at one time cross-examined Dr. Condon on a photograph which the prosecution sought to place in evidence and through the examination succeeded in keeping it out.

It was the first time during the trial, except for one previous occasion on which Mr. Pope had objected to the form of a question by Attorney General David T. Wilentz that any of the defense associates had been heard. It was said that the associates had undertaken to make themselves heard on points of law without consulting Mr. Reilly, and would become more vocal in the future.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Get to Bed to Check Cold or Influenza

When you are attacked by a severe cold or by influenza, the first thing to do is to get to bed.

The room should be airy and the ventilation should include a free current of air without chilling.

If both ventilation and warmth cannot be obtained at the same time, ventilation is more important, and warmth should be provided by proper coverings on the bed and use of screens to keep off drafts.

The number and weight of bed clothes should not be determined by your decision as to whether you feel cold or warm.

The temperature of the room is a most important factor. Your own temperature can be controlled by use of sponging. Fairly frequent sponging with lukewarm water will take down a fever.

Do not try to feed a cold and crowd your stomach with food until you are uncomfortable; neither is it desirable to starve a cold.

Persons with influenza and with colds must have plenty of liquids, taken preferably rather warm, but cold water may be had if you cannot take water in any other way.

Of great importance in such cases is relief from discomfort, aching, and plenty of sleep. To get plenty of sleep, relief from pain is what is necessary for the doctor to prescribe suitable remedies.

You should not, however, attempt to doctor yourself against pain and cold, because you may do yourself more harm than good.

Far too many people are incapacitated today because they got up too soon after having had a severe cold or influenza. The result has been a weakened heart, unable to survive even the stresses of ordinary life.

No person with a cold should get out of bed until he has been free from fever for at least two days. If he has suffered more than a week from influenza, accompanied by fever, he may have to stay in bed three or four days, or even an additional week before getting back to work.

The doctor watches the pulse and the competency of the heart very carefully. You should be up at first only a small period of time, and this may be gradually increased if the heart and the muscles respond satisfactorily.

At the same time, the diet is gradually increased, and the doctor looks particularly at the condition of the blood. It may be necessary to prescribe plenty of liver and kidneys, and even additional iron to build the blood up to its normal level after any depressing disease like influenza.

At least a week or two after you get up and go back to work, you should have a complete physical examination to determine that your heart and kidneys, and particularly your lungs, are without any defects or complications as a result of the disease.

If any such condition is discovered, prompt measures should be taken to handle it in its incipient stage, to avoid more permanent disease and disability.

Thorne Smith, who introduced a new brand of rabid insanity to the American novel, died some months ago. But he left a practically complete manuscript behind him, and this has been published. The result is a splendidly new novel, "The Glorious Pool."

If you are a Thorne Smith devotee, you won't need to be told about his style. If you aren't, however, a word of warning is due, lest you pick up a hot potato by mistake.

Let it be said, then, that Mr. Smith's books are an amazing blend of hilarious acceptance of impossible happenings—such as ghosts, and Greek statues which can come to life—and a broad and easy irony.

Trial Opened for Dillinger Lawyer

Doctor Who 'Lifted' Gangster's Face Testifies for State

CHICAGO—Attorney Louis Piquett was the brains of the conspiracy under which John Dillinger evaded the law for three months after his escape from the Crown Point jail last spring, it was testified Wednesday in Piquett's trial before Federal Judge William H. Holly.

Arthur W. O'Leary, former investigator for Piquett, the go-between in the early connections with the hunted gangster, was the ace witness for the government. He told of contacting Dillinger after his jail break, meeting him in various sections of the city and how Piquett agreed to arrange and did arrange the surgical face-lifting and fingerprint altering that helped the murderer and robber to evade officers.

Dr. Harold Bernard Cassidy, who has pleaded guilty to the charge of conspiracy, went on the witness stand as a witness for the court. Dr. Cassidy said he had known Piquett for five years, O'Leary for seven years and the third one of the trio, Dr. William Loesser, since last May.

Examination by J. Albert Wolf, special assistant to the attorney general, Cassidy related his story under constant prodding and reminders.

"On May 28 last," he said, "I received a telephone call from O'Leary. He asked me to accompany him to a house to supervise some work to be done by an unlicensed doctor."

The prosecutor produced pictures of Dillinger and he was asked if this was the man he had met in the house.

"Yes, that is John," he said.

"What was done next?"

"Loesser said he would examine the man. He asked him what identification marks he had that he wanted removed. Dillinger took off part of his clothes and lay down on a bed in the adjoining room. He was asked if he wanted a general or local anesthetic. He said a general. I prepared a makeshift mask out of a towel and administered ether. He stopped breathing. I removed the ether and gave him an artificial respiration."

He said a mole was removed from Dillinger's eyebrow, two incisions were made in the side of his face, one under the chin and one on the nose.

"Was any money given to you on that day?"

"Yes, $600."

"Was it given to you by Piquett?"

"I thought it was until O'Leary told me he gave it to me. I was confused from that time on."

Cassidy said he received $1,200 for all his work. The second $600 was paid on June 3. On cross-examination he said Piquett was not there at the time of the operation.

Winter Trip Brings Risk of Sunburn

The woman who expects to spend a good part of her winter vacation on a warm southern beach should take along a preparation to prevent sunburn, something to keep her skin from becoming rough and dry and cosmetics that will match her complexion once it gets a coat of tan.

There are fine, inexpensive sun creams, oils and lotions on the market today. Get a reliable brand and then remember to smooth it generously on arms, back, face, legs and hands before you start for the beach. It will allow your skin to become a rich, golden brown instead of a blistered-looking red shade.

If you don't want to tan at all wear a wide-brimmed hat and some sort of beach robe or cape when you aren't in the water. Incidentally, too much sunshine is bad for the hair and it's just as well to wear a hat a good deal of the time anyway.

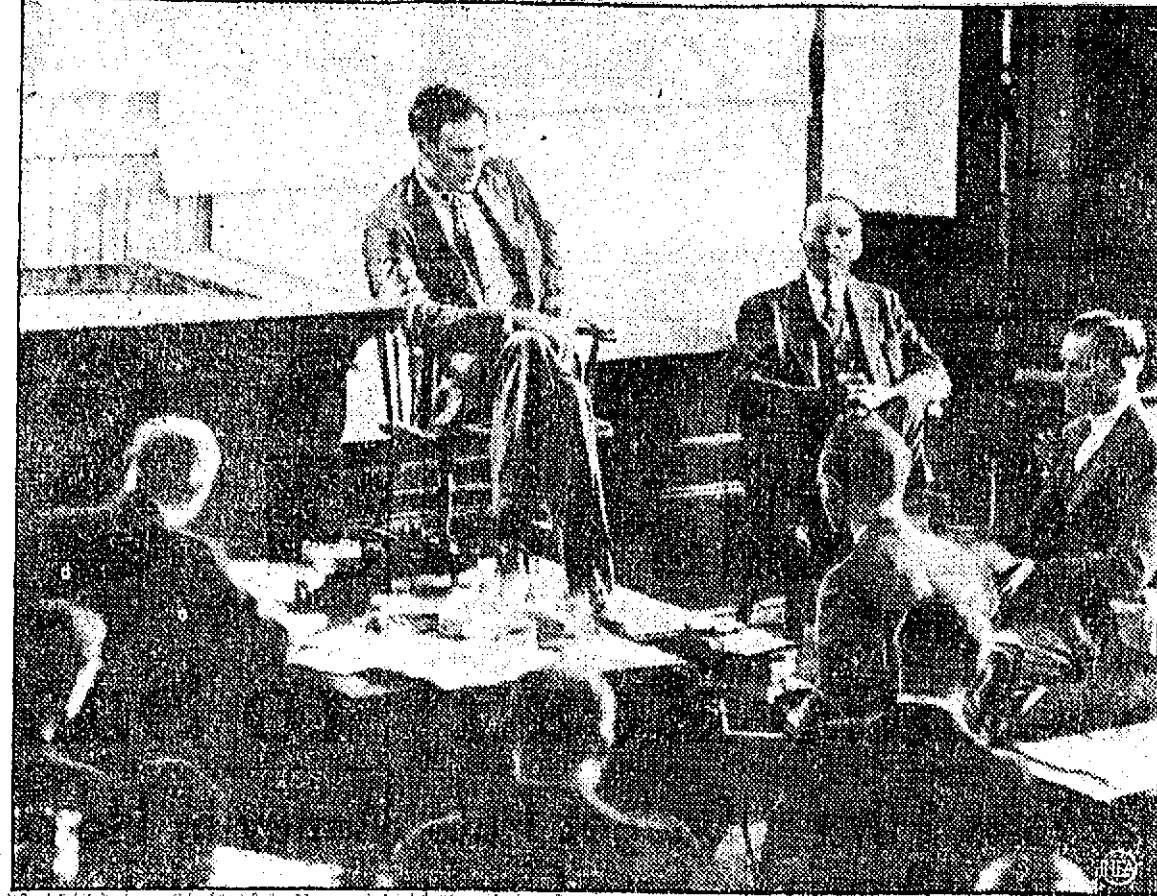

Use tissue cream each night before you go to bed and pat some on again in the morning. In addition, be sure to apply foundation lotion before you put on cosmetics. It will protect your skin and make rouge and powder stay on in spite of hot weather.

If you plan to stay longer than two weeks, by all means take face powder in a darker shade than you ordinarily use. You might get a small box in an extremely dark tone and as your skin gets darker and darker, mix some of it with your own powder. This way you always have powder to match your complexion.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN HOLISTER breaks her engagement to TONY MICKLE the same day that PETER KEN- BELL tells VALERIA BENNETT, his fiancée, that everything is over between them. Ann thinks she will leave Tony and Peter because he still cares for Valeria, but when chance brings the two together, Ann finds out that Peter still loves her.

They go to Florida and are happy there. Then Peter is called home. He tells Ann that he will leave her and Valeria tries to make trouble between Ann and Peter. She succeeds finally and Ann goes away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts.

Peter, desperately in love with her by this time, grows lonely as the weeks pass. His efforts to locate Ann are fruitless. She has found work as a governess in the home of Mrs. TRACY, an artist. ALAN VIN- CENT, Mrs. Tracy's brother, is attentive to Ann.

Valeria, scheming to win Peter back, persuades him to hire Alan Vincent to decorate the home he bought for Ann.

Ann returns the house Alan is decorating belongs to Peter. Convinced that Peter plans to divorce her and marry Valeria, Ann leaves the Tracy home. She becomes a clerk in a book store. She meets Alan one rainy night and he persuades her to drive home with him for dinner. After she is in the car she realizes he has been drinking.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII
ANN was glad when the drive ended. She sprang from the car without waiting for Alan's assistance and ran up the steps.

Alan followed. He opened the door with his key instead of ringing the bell. "Go in and take off your coat and hat," he said. "I think I'd better run the car in the garage. It looks as though another heavy rain is due."

Ann went in. It was cozy and warm inside—and quiet. A log fire smoldered in the living room.

Alan came in. He went over to kick the logs together and said, "We'll have a real fire burning in my studio in a little while."

"Where are the children and Mrs. Tracy?" Ann asked.

"They'll be along. Here, take off that damp coat. He helped her remove it, his hands lingering on her arms.

Ann drew away from him. Walking to a mirror, she began taking off her hat.

Alan grinned. "Same old Ann. Standoffish as ever. It's deuced cold in here. How about a drink?"

"No thank you, Alan. I'm quite warm."

"I'll have one then if you don't mind."

When he came back Ann was staring at the brimming asbrass on the console, on the coffee table.

"Alan," she asked quietly, "where is Mrs. Tracy?"

After a moment he said, "In Virginia."

"In Virginia?" Ann's voice was excited. "And you brought me here? I wouldn't have thought you'd do things like that."

"Why not?"

Ann faced him tensely. Alan met her eyes uneasily. "What's the harm? I knew you wouldn't come if I told you they were away. Would you have come?"

"No, of course not."

"There!"

"You must take me home—now," Ann said steadily.

He laughed. "And spend the evening alone in this tomb? Don't be silly."

"Please, Alan. You must realize I can't stay here with you."

"Why not? Who will know anything about it, anyway?" He was smiling queerly.

"Of course you are. What a host I'm turning out to be! Let's raid the ice box."

"You really did while I enjoy the fire. I'm really dead, Alan. On my feet all day. Of course if you don't think you can manage—"

"Of course I can. I'm a real cook. I stood looking down at her. He touched her hair, tentatively, caressingly.

"You are adorable. Ann, you do forgive me? It was the only way I know, I've wanted you so. It was like a fever—driving me mad."

"What is there to forgive?" Ann said gayly. "Will you make coffee, Alan? Make it strong."

"What else?"

"Damon. And I'd like eggs."

"You want breakfast, not supper."

"You'd never cook two meals." She glanced up at him and met his long, eager look.

He was completely deceived, she saw. Sober, his wits would have been sharper. He would have seen through her change of attitude. In this muddled state he believed only what he wanted to believe—that she was trying desperately to make him believe.

ALAN stooped, kissing her hair, and then went to the kitchen. There were three exits. One at the rear. It would be necessary to pass through the kitchen that way. There was a door leading outside from the sun parlor. It was kept locked, but there would be a key in the lock if Ann were lucky. Sometimes Sonny removed it. He was always removing it. Ann prayed that the key would be there.

She would go into the front of the house, turn on the radio and then unlock the door, putting the key in the lock on the outside. Then she would open the front door, come back, step through the side door, lock it and wait. Alan's first thought would be to look about probably. The door to the sun parlor would be locked and he wouldn't suspect her trick. He would dash through the front door, get his car and search for her on the road that led to town. He would know she couldn't be far away. When he didn't find her he would return and she would be here. In the meantime she would have called a taxi. She would insist that the driver write down the directions. She must be sure, sure that he would make no errors.

Ann went to the kitchen door, humming "Stormy Weather."

"Stormy is right," Alan grinned. "The bacon smells good. Supper almost ready?"

"Almost."

Ann started toward the front of the house. "Alan, isn't Hebble Wilson broadcasting from the Peacock tonight?"

"Gosh, Ann," he muttered, "I don't keep up with jazz programs."

"You miss something," Ann called lightly from the living room. She turned on the radio. In a moment more there was a blast of sound.

"It's murderous. Turn the darn thing low."

"All right. I don't think this is his program. She was twirling the dial, one program merging into another."

"I have it now. Doesn't that sound swell?"

Under the steady flow of melody Ann crossed to the sun parlor and pulled aside the curtain at the French doors.

The key was in the lock. (To Be Continued.)

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Who measures man beside a hill
Will find that he is humble still.
Tall plumes against a northern sky
Have wisdom we could profit by.
The grave sweet songs the hill brooks sing
Have themes they learned from every spring.
And there is reason why the thrush
Prefers for song the twilight hush.
Let us be humble, then, before
The high hill's truth, the hill brook's lore:
And at the twilight's ending pray
With thrushes for the vanished day.
Let us remember seed and sod

PROMISED NAMING

Hauk and former Judge George K.
Large, also of the prosecution, explained the point raised by defense lawyers concerning Dr. Condon's testimony about the letter with the ram-son symbol.

"Of course," said Judge Large,
"when he telephoned Colonel Lindbergh he was instructed to open this letter. Colonel Lindbergh instructed him over the telephone. That is how he knew the symbol."

"Dr. Condon was clear in his own mind about his testimony; he wasn't mixed up at all. It was the defense counsel who was mixed up."

Both expressed themselves as pleased with Dr. Condon's effect as a witness. Mr. Wilentz, asked the same question, said: "I'll say nothing about a witness still on the stand, but you ought to be able to draw your own conclusions from my face." His face was best described as expressing smiling assurance.

that the day following the election, Thornton reported that he had come to

Contract Is Signed by Travis Jackson

Arkansas Star to Play Another Season With
N. Y. Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Travis Jackson, the man from Arkansas who will play third base for Bill Terry's New York Giants this year, Wednesday sent in his signed contract to the club offices here.

The terms of his 1935 salary were not announced. Jackson is the ninth Giant to come peacefully to terms.
So far no rumbles of discontent among any of the Giant athletes have reached the ears of Club Secretary Jim Tierney.

counted for Kitchens. He did not have any money, he said, and would not have paid for votes if he had.
He admitted having been in a pressing shop and having talked to the Holiman brothers. He declared that after the election, Holiman told him he had made an affidavit concerning their alleged conversation, but that he was sorry that he had signed it.

C. M. Martin of Camden testified that he had contacted many persons in Calhoun county and never had heard any rumors that money was being offered by Kitchens for votes. His testimony was corroborated by several other witnesses.

R. H. Peace, a Hampton lawyer, testified that a Calhoun county deputy sheriff apparently was misinformed when he testified that the poll tax books which were unused were sent to the auditor of state about June 20.
They were in Hampton on the day before the first primary, August 14, he declared.

Case Nearing Close
The two witnesses for the defense heard today were George Kimbrell and Franklin Smith of Parkdale, judge and clerk, respectively in the run-off primary. Both declared that the vote as announced, 147 for Parks and 14 for Kitchens, was correct.

they would rest. It is believed the derebutal. If the court mails to sustain the Parks motion relative to jurisdiccontroversy will be concluded in a

Cardui for Certain Pains

"Several years ago, I suffered quite a lot at menstruation time," writes Mrs. Oscar Branan, of Vicksburg, Miss. "I took Cardui and I believe it stopped all this trouble. Last year, I felt the need of Cardui again, for pains in my head and back at my menstruation period. I went back to Cardui. Now I do not suffer. I feel just fine and can go ahead with my work as at other times. I feel that any time I spend money for Cardui I am getting value received."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes

Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestines, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 3 pints a day thru the bladder which contains nearly 4 pounds of waste matter. If you pass less than this amount, your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbar, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kidney cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Frequent use of this nature may injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "drugs" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.
